

Seventy-second Year—Number 232

NOW THINK COULTER IS "CURLY" WILSON, NELSON MURDERER

Sheriff Gets Information in South Supporting Theory.

Sheriff Frank Schoenholz has returned home from a few days' trip in the south in search of witnesses wanted at the present term of the circuit court and also investigating the rumor that a man was under surveillance in Memphis, Tenn., who had admitted to a murder in this city about a year ago. It appears that the Memphis police at no time had the man under surveillance, but had the story of a woman as the foundation of their queries locally.

At thens, Ala., the sheriff learned that a colored man giving the name of M. A. Coulter had been under arrest in the county jail and was held for some time while an effort was being made to hold him on a murder charge.

From the description furnished by the authorities at thens, Sheriff Schoenholz is of the belief that Coulter may be Hampton "Curly" Wilson, who was wanted in connection with the murder of George Bush, colored, at the Northwestern round house at Nelson on the night of December 6, 1918.

Two Were Convicted.

Two other negroes, Lucas and Johnson, were arrested in Hannibal, Mo., shortly after the murder and brought back to Dixon for trial in connection with the murder. Wilson escaped a few minutes after the murder and is believed to have caught a ride on a freight train south bound on the Peoria branch.

It is presumed that Wilson hurried to the south, where he assumed the name of Coulter and has been wandering about trying to evade the officers and has in a braggadocio manner, dropped some hint of his having killed a man near Dixon. The description of the negro given to Sheriff Schoenholz last week tallies almost identically to that of Wilson.

ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT MET TODAY; DOCKET IS HEAVY

Several Important Matters to Come Before Su- preme Justices.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Springfield, Ill., Oct. 3.—With 133 cases on its advisement docket and 206 on the call docket, the Illinois Supreme Court was to convene this afternoon to begin a heavy term of business following the summer recess.

The call docket ends October 21 and decisions are to be handed down that day.

Among cases on the rehearing docket is a petition for rehearing filed by William Gross Lloyd, Chicago millionaire. Lloyd and seventeen other members of the communist labor party were convicted of conspiracy to overthrow the constitutional government of the United States. With several others he was given a penitentiary sentence.

The question whether a city may sell its electric current to another city is also involved in the case of Charles Carr, operating the Athens Light & Power Company, against the city of Athens. Carr asked an injunction against the city in the Menard county circuit court, to restrain it from purchasing electric current from Springfield. The supreme court affirmed the lower court decision denying the injunction and Carr has asked for a rehearing.

Against Chicago Board
On the advisement docket is the case in which Attorney General Brundage is seeking a writ of mandamus to compel Sheriff Charles W. Peters of Cook county to arrest the Board of Education of Chicago for contempt of court. Judge Kickham Scanlan of the Cook county circuit court had ordered the members of the board and their attorney, William A. Bithar, committed to jail for contempt because they elected Peter A. Mortensen as city superintendent of schools after Judge Scanlan had decided that Charles C. Chadsey was superintendent.

The constitutionality of the medical practice act of 1899 is attacked by Dr. Robert E. Schaeffer, who was fined in the Municipal Court of Chicago for practicing osteopathic surgery without a license.

Call of the civil docket begins on Thursday, Oct. 12 and the criminal docket is set for Saturday, Oct. 14.

ATTENDED FUNERAL

Frank Coakley, two daughters, Mrs. Hartnett, Mrs. Franklin and son, Charles of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Lister of Clinton, Iowa, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lister of Davenport, Iowa, have returned to their homes, having been called here by the death of Mrs. George S. Coakley.

"I ride most of the way on the front seat with Lester so the wind shield and this sweater vest will protect me," he said. "I don't like soft seats. When I ride in the back of the car I usually occupy the folding chair. I like the bumps at 87 years for they remind me of life."

Lawyers of Dist. to Meet in Oregon

The annual meeting of the Illinois Bar Association, Sixth Judicial District Federation, will be held at Oregon, Oct. 28, and Lee county lawyers plan to attend the sessions almost en masse. A full and free discussion of the new constitution of the state, which will be voted on Dec. 12, will be one of the features of the meeting.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and probably Wednesday, not much change in temperature.

Friendship Lodge No. 7 was the first lodge chartered by the Grand Lodge of Illinois, 83 years ago.

Dixon Commandery No. 21 Knights Templar have a well organized drill team and a very active drum and bugle corps, the only one from a city of less than 10,000 at the 35th Triennial Conclave at New Orleans, this year, and they gained wide notoriety through having lead the Illinois Division in the grand parade. One Dixon Sir Knight is now an officer in the Grand Commandery of Illinois.

The social affairs of the Dixon Masons, which arouse a great deal of interest, even in Chicago, are managed by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Knights Templar, the Parlor Club and the "Travelers From the East," who are noted for their elaborate parties. The hospitality of the Dixon Masons is well known and is frequently enjoyed by the leaders of the organization, throughout the state.

FORMER DIXON MAN INJURED IN MISHAP AT DEKALB MONDAY

Allen Buckalo Drove Au- tomobile Into a Rope on Street.

DeKalb, Ill., Oct. 2.—Allen C. Buckalo, formerly of Dixon, manager of Vaille & O'Malley's store, was injured this morning when he attempted to drive onto the Lincoln Highway from Park avenue, crashing into a rope stretched across the intersection at Park avenue.

Mr. Buckalo, failed to see the rope, and stated emphatically there was no danger signal to warn motorists of the rope. Others state, however, that there was a red cloth on the rope. Officials of the traction company also state there was a cloth on the rope.

The street was blocked on account of the DeKalb-Sycamore & Interurban Traction company removing the trolley wires from First to Pearl street. Officer Rowe was stationed at John street directing everyone to go around the way of Locust street to avoid the trouble.

Mr. Buckalo, according to reports, was driving south on Park avenue, and slowed up at the intersection, to avoid colliding with automobiles driving east or west. When he saw the way was clear, started to the south side of Lincoln Highway.

At each of these meetings a simple drag or sled was made for use in picking seed which greatly eliminates the drudgery of seed corn picking.

Other Meetings Arranged.
Meetings during the coming week have been arranged as follows:

Oct. 6, 10:30 a. m. Joe Miller farm, Willow Creek township.

Oct. 9, 1:30 p. m. R. H. Belcher farm, Palmyra township.

Oct. 10, 1:30 p. m. Michael Duton farm, East Grove township.

At each of these meetings seed corn selection, corn root rot and the use of the seed corn drag will be demonstrated. Farmers are also requested to bring soil samples which they may wish tested.

On the evening of Oct. 18 at 7:30 p. m. moving pictures will be shown at the Anson Rosenkranz home in Willow Creek Township. Farm topics will also be discussed and soil tests will be made.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Mrs. W. H. Felton of Carterville, Ga., was appointed by Governor Thomas W. Hardwick today to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Thomas E. Watson until the people elect a successor in November. Mrs. Felton will be the first woman to become a senator.

The accident, while not as serious as it might have been, will cause the business man some inconvenience for several days to come, and the automobile which was badly wrecked will be in the repair shop for a much longer time.

Amboy Man's Case is Before Court

A jury was selected in the circuit criminal case against James A. Loughran, Amboy merchant, charged with having a deadly weapon.

Attorneys John Erwin and Jerome Dixon are appearing for the defendant.

The case will probably go to the jury late this afternoon. The entire panel of petit jurymen was used in the selection of a panel and Judge Edwards was obliged to call in three more jurors probably will not prove serious.

Mrs. Annie Fitch, Former Dixonite Died in Chicago

Word was received here shortly before noon today of the death of Mrs.

Annie Fitch, a former resident of Dixon and a sister of Frank Messer,

Mr. Fitch passed away at 4:30 this morning at the home of her son,

Frank C. Fitch in Chicago. Mrs.

Fitch was born and raised in Dixon but had made her home in Chicago for the past 50 years. Funeral services will be conducted in Chicago to the last.

Count 2,505 Autos on Road in an Hour

Atty. and Mrs. H. C. Warner have returned from a motor trip to St. Louis.

On their return they came over the Dixie Highway to Chicago and thence to Dixon on the Roosevelt road to Geneva and the Lincoln Highway.

Between Geneva and the Speedway hospital Sunday evening

they passed 2,39 miles in one hour and counted 2,505 automobiles which they had passed in this period of time.

This is an example of the amount of traffic on this section of paved highway on Sunday evening when many Chicagoans are returning home from country trips.

WORK—
Let me do but my work from day to day,
In field or forest, at the desk or loom,
In roaring market-place or tranquil room;

Let me but find it in my heart to say,
When vagrant wishes beckon me astray,
This is my work; my blessing, not my doom;

Of all who live, I am the one by whom This work can best be done in the right way."

Then shall I see it not too great, nor small,

To suit my spirit and to prove my powers;

Then shall I cheerful greet the laboring hours;

And cheerful turn, when the long shadows fall;

At eventide, to play and love and rest,
Because I know for me my work is best.

If, however, her plans are already made and she cannot include another guest, you hear no resentment if she refuses. Such a course is not unusual.

NEWS FROM DIXON

"SPRING FEVER" STILL SEEN IN GYM ACTIVITIES

"Too Warm" is Excuse Given for Lack of Interest.

Murphy sez: These warm days do not seem to inspire one with a fever heated passion for action or exercise. Mayhap a few germs of that sluggish disease called Spring Fever, still lingers in the system. "Too warm," seems to be the universal excuse—excuse, not reason. In the good old army days we were told that it was results, not excuses, that were wanted. The same rule might be applied to exercise. The person who defies weather to keep him from keeping fit is the bird who will win out. Procrastination works the greatest evil with the procrastinator. It is during the early days of the season that he who honestly wants to keep in condition or to get into condition, who wants to kill that listless, lazy feeling, can get the jump on the other fellow and work the sluggishness from his blood and the flabbiness from his muscles without suffering from a lot of unnecessary soreness and stiffness that comes from unaccustomed exercise. Golfers, tennis players, swimmers, etc., can jump right into the gym or pool now and keep themselves fit for their next season's play without having to endure a period of inactivity. Do it now.

A MEAT DRIVE

Meat dealers are exercised because the people in this country are eating so little meat. Some are about to start a campaign under the slogan,
"Eat more meat and be healthier." It is pointed out that the per capita consumption of meat in this country has fallen off 27% per cent since the war.High meat prices in many localities have been responsible for the decline in meat eating. Where proper deflation has not taken place, the meat men will find that to be the quickest way to increased sales.There has been great progress, too, in dietary understanding in the last few years and housewives have learned to set a better balanced ration before their families than they did in the old days when if there was "plenty of good meat and potatoes" all else was considered as frills. The meat dealers must take this fact into considera-It may be that the average family does not need more of the energizing meats, and certainly nobody wishes the honest dealer any hard luck; but if too little meat is bad for the dealer there is a general understanding that too much is bad for the consumer. If the meat men really want the public with them they will have to show how to balance the increased meat ration with other foods so that the consumer may be assured of getting the good without the harm.LAUGH, AND THE WORLD LAUGHS WITH YOUGovernor Louis F. Hart of Washington has proclaimed that the week of October 1-7 is to be observed in his state as Smile Week. Every citizen will be expected to smile, at least in public, and to deport himself for seven days as he should deport himself every day of every week, and month and year."Let every one forget trouble," he declares. "Greet each one with a smile; saw some cheerful word. Do a kindly act; disseminate joy; visit the shut-ins. I wish the newspapers, the theatres and the movies would eliminate the murders and all depressing and sorrow-breeding items, acts and pictures.""Laugh, and the world laughs with you; weep, and you weep alone," Eliza Wheeler Wilcox's popular and often quoted verses, and Victor Hugo's wise saying, "Nothing succeeds like success," connote, in a general way, the practical principle which underlies the manifestation or semblance of prosperity. It is almost as effective to seem happy as to be happy, and to seem successful as to be so.The world acclaimed success, but deserts failure, and it reveals in inertness, but abandons despondency.
Everybody has reverses of his own,
and he whose condition in life is one of incertitude, flatters the successful man and tries to cling to him in the uttermost hope of having a last reliance.
Everybody has troubles and sorrows of his own, which he wishes to cast aside, and he flees from melancholy as from a horrible spectre.But it is not only the selfish interest in prosperity, as shown by smiles and success, that impels the world to prefer the atmosphere of happiness to the tears of rue and the gloom of misfortune. People like the agreeable temperament of gladness for its own sake, as it is a sphere of sweet complacency.Smiling is more than an eternal expression of kindly emotion. It is an evidence of sterling character. When it is the radiance of prosperity and good health, it is the outward sign of knighthood courtesy. When it is the sun shining through disaster, illness, grief, it typifies faith and fortitude unconquerable.

Good will is equanimity, and equanimity is self-control. The person whose manner is courteous is master of himself. The person who is serene in adversity is a man of indomitable courage, which is lord of his own fate, whatever it may be. Day after day, courtesy, kindness and serenity are the internal smiles of heart and mind which betoken the soul supreme in every circumstance of life.Entered at the postoffice in the city of

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES

POSSIBILITIES

By Berton Brailey

If a lap dog were big as a pachyderm,
And an elephant small as a dog,
'Twould be unusual, I affirm,
And we would be all agog.
But after a little while, I'll bet
The matter would cease to irk us,
We'd keep the elephant as a pet,
And send the dog to the circus.

If a horse should shrink to the size of a mouse,
And a mouse grow large as a horse,
There wouldn't be room for the mice in the house,
(You follow my thought, of course,
So we'd hitch the mice to the sulky plow—
They'd take to it, by degrees—
And day by day we would worry how
To keep the horse from the cheese.

If a flea should grow to the size of a man,
And a man grow small as a flea,
Why, life would be on a different plan
From what it used to be;
For the man would hop and the man would bite,
And the flea would have to chase him;
Swatting the air with all his might,
Endeavoring to efface him!

SHOULD any such things as these occur
We certainly would deplore them,
But if they happened, I must aver
We ought to be ready for them!

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well.

THE CHILD IN SCHOOL

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

Children in school need a great deal of attention, especially those just starting to school.

It cannot be stated too emphatically that morning and afternoon recesses are an absolute necessity in the lower grades. It is easy to make the mistake of working children too hard.

The common punishment of making children stay after school is a menace to the child's health. How much better it would be to enforce discipline during the school hours, and then let the children run free in the sunlight and fresh air, as they should, to maintain their bodily health.

LEARN A WORD
EVERY DAY

TODAY'S word is—APLOMB.

Generally it's pronounced—a-plum, with accent on the second syllable;
but strictly speaking, the word being French, the two syllables should be accented equally, and the second one should finish with a sound somewhere between "m," "n" and "ng," a nasal with no exact equivalent in English.
Webster gives it as "a-plon," with the first syllable accented but the second more heavily so.

It comes from—French "a," to, and
"plomb," lead.

Literally, it means—perpendicularly;
but ordinarily has the sense of "assurance of manner, self-possession."

It's used like this—"Kemal Pasha's aplomb in his dealings with the allies doubtless is due, in great measure, to his assurance of French and Italian sympathy with Turkey's claims."A THOUGHT

GIANTS AND YANKEES READY FOR BATTLES; BUSH AGAINST NEHF

Managers of Contending Teams Confident in Their Cohorts.

New York, Oct. 3.—(By the Associated Press)—The New York Giants and Yankees, standard bearers of the National and American Leagues, were tuned to concert pitch today in final workouts in preparation for the opening tomorrow of their second successive struggle for premier baseball honors. The Giants were victors last year in a tensely fought World's Series that lasted eight games. The laurel this year will go to the team winning four out of seven.

With a shorter series, attendance records were not expected to exceed last year's high mark—269,977 paid admissions for eight games—but indications pointed to capacity demands.

Club officials today announced a sell-out in reserved seats for the first six games, with thousands of unfilled ap-

Advance Guards There.

Advanced guards of delegations from all parts of the United States, Canada and outlying points were on hand early today. The influx was expected to reach its height tonight.

Close to 500 newspaper men from all parts of the continent were on hand to supply millions of newspapers readers first hand accounts of the series. Two hundred additional press applications could not be granted because of the limited facilities.

Promise of fair weather, with ideal temperatures, not only for the opening game but probably for the rest of the week, checkmated any untoward moves by rain.

But above and beyond the cold and material facts, the scramble for tickets and the preparations of the faithful who will start the bleacherites vigil to-night in the lee of Coogan's bluff, fans in the highways and byways were absorbed in the battle of "ifs" and "ands"—the pro and con that wages back and forth over the merits of the contenders.

Managers Non-Commital.

Those who asserted vehemently that the predominating pitching strength of the Yankees would be the decisive factor were as emphatically answered by those who believed that the hard hitting, quick thinking and aggressive attack of the Giants would overcome any disadvantage on the mound.

Neither manager had committed himself to a prediction of victory. Not that either John McGraw or Miller Huggins lacks confidence in his team. But the fact remains that after all has been said both clubs are fortified in close to an even basis, with the breaks of the game likely to swing the tide toward either camp.

"I look for a higher grade of baseball this year than we had a year ago," McGraw declared. "This may be contrary to general opinion, but it's my story. A year ago both teams were a bit keyed up, and it took some time for the tension to lessen. This year both have gone through another pennant winning campaign and this, added to the experience they got in the series of 1921, should result in an absence of 'nerves.' Both should play at their best."

Says Yanks Are Better.

Huggins was perhaps a little more outspoken.

"We have a great lot of pitchers," he said. "We have a terrific hitter in Ruth—a game, hard hitting, fighting ball club—a far better team than the one the Giants beat last year. All the men are physically fit, mentally primed. We have just come out of the toughest fight ever waged for a pennant. On paper we look stronger than the Giants, but the series is not won on paper."

Pitching has been the outstanding factor in World's Series triumphs over a span of two decades. Records reveal an unusual proportion of shutout twirling—close to a third of the games ending with one team scoreless, with the high mark in 1905 when the Giants blanked the Athletics four times to win, while the Mackmen turned the shutout tables once.

Bush vs. Nehf.

Bush, whom Huggins has picked to open the series, has been handicapped for a while by a stone bruise on his left foot, but the Yankees manager asserted during the team's work out yesterday that his star twirler has practically recovered. He predicted "Bullet Joe" would be in prime condition for the first game.

Southpaw Art Nehf is expected to draw McGraw's opening assignment, with experts inclined to regard Scott,

Bogus Currency in Middle West

Chicago, Oct. 3.—A gang of counterfeitors, probably with headquarters in the east, has been passing bogus currency in eastern cities and some of it has reached the middle west, according to Captain Thomas I. Porter of the secret service. He declared that evidence had been found that a counterfeiting plant had been destroyed by counterfeitors themselves before abandoning the place, near Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Fake bills in denominations of $5, $10 and $20 bills recently have been recovered Captain Porter said.

Banks at Springfield and Danville, Ill. had reported some of the bills had turned up in those cities.

Captain Porter believed the counterfeitors were foreigners and that they moved from city to city rapidly.

Now beautify teeth in this way
Millions of them—the world over

Careful people, well advised, now use a new teeth-cleaning method—millions of them in every clime, and largely by dental advice.

Beautiful teeth you see everywhere show the results of this method.

It is something you should know. Learn what it means to you and yours. Make this free ten-day test.

Combats the dingy film

It is film that makes teeth dingy—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains disolor it, then it forms thin cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film.

The ordinary tooth paste does not end film. So most teeth, in the old days, were more or less discolored.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. Under old methods, they were constantly increasing. The most careful people rarely escaped.

Two combatants now

Dental science, after long research, has found two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it. Able authorities have amply proved their efficiency. Now leading dentists the world over are urging their daily use.

A new tooth paste has been created, based on modern research. It brings five effects now considered essential. It avoids several old mistakes.

This tooth paste is called Pepsodent. And those two great film combatants are embodied in it.

Other desired effects

Modern research has found other things essential, and Pepsodent brings those effects.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

Thus Pepsodent gives manifold power to Nature's great tooth-protecting agents. It polishes the teeth so film less easily adheres. Old-time tooth pastes, based on soap and chalk, brought just opposite effects.

In these ways, Pepsodent is bringing a new dental era. Already it has brought to millions whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. The peoples of fifty nations are being taught to use it. And their children will get life-long benefits which your childhood missed.

Why Men's Teeth Glisten everywhere today

The film on teeth of men who smoke becomes especially discolored. But note how men's teeth glisten nowadays—men who remove the film. Note how men and women, when they smile, are showing pretty teeth. Those are Pepsodent effects, now attained by millions, largely through dental advice. They do not come by scouring teeth in any harmful way, but by scientific film removal.

Managers Non-Commital.

Those who asserted vehemently that the predominating pitching strength of the Yankees would be the decisive factor were as emphatically answered by those who believed that the hard hitting, quick thinking and aggressive attack of the Giants would overcome any disadvantage on the mound.

Neither manager had committed himself to a prediction of victory. Not that either John McGraw or Miller Huggins lacks confidence in his team. But the fact remains that after all has been said both clubs are fortified in close to an even basis, with the breaks of the game likely to swing the tide toward either camp.

"I look for a higher grade of baseball this year than we had a year ago," McGraw declared. "This may be contrary to general opinion, but it's my story. A year ago both teams were a bit keyed up, and it took some time for the tension to lessen. This year both have gone through another pennant winning campaign and this, added to the experience they got in the series of 1921, should result in an absence of 'nerves.' Both should play at their best."

Says Yanks Are Better.

Huggins was perhaps a little more outspoken.

"We have a great lot of pitchers," he said. "We have a terrific hitter in Ruth—a game, hard hitting, fighting ball club—a far better team than the one the Giants beat last year. All the men are physically fit, mentally primed. We have just come out of the toughest fight ever waged for a pennant. On paper we look stronger than the Giants, but the series is not won on paper."

Pitching has been the outstanding factor in World's Series triumphs over a span of two decades. Records reveal an unusual proportion of shutout twirling—close to a third of the games ending with one team scoreless, with the high mark in 1905 when the Giants blanked the Athletics four times to win, while the Mackmen turned the shutout tables once.

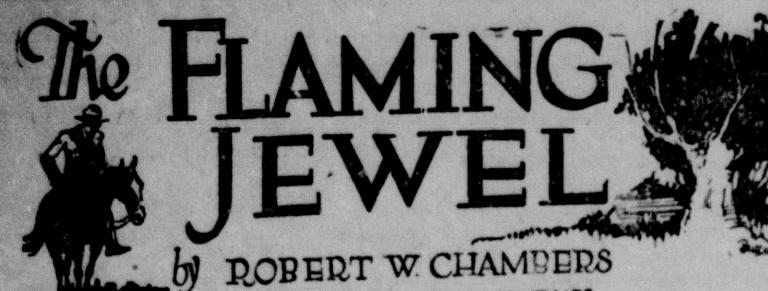

Bush vs. Nehf.

Bush, whom Huggins has picked to open the series, has been handicapped for a while by a stone bruise on his left foot, but the Yankees manager asserted during the team's work out yesterday that his star twirler has practically recovered. He predicted "Bullet Joe" would be in prime condition for the first game.

Southpaw Art Nehf is expected to draw McGraw's opening assignment, with experts inclined to regard Scott,

For two years, Fate, Chance, and Destiny had been too busy to attend to MIKE CLINCH. Now the malevolent influence which had hung over each possession of the priceless Flaming Jewel ever since it was stolen from a refugee countess of Esthonia, gathered like a fog about the disreputable hunting grounds of Clinch, and in the Adirondacks. Here, among the craggy peaks and rifts of the North Woods, Clinch lives with his beautiful step-daughter.

EVE STRAYER. JAMES DARRAGH learns from the countess that the Flaming Jewel was originally stolen from her by QUINTANA, a great international thief whose New York agents is EMANUEL SARD. Darragh, who had a code letter with Quintana, which states that the Flaming Jewel is now in the possession of Mike Clinch. Darragh heads for Clinch's cabin at St. Paul, and on his trail are two State Troopers, seeking to arrest him for the holdup of Sard.

Go on With the Story

CHAPTER III

CLINCH, in his shirt sleeves, came out on the veranda. He had little light gray eyes, close-clipped gray hair, and was clean shaven.

"How are you, Clinch," inquired Lannis affably.

"All right," replied Clinch; "you're the same, I hope."

Trooper Stormont, Mr. Clinch," said Lannis in his genial way.

"Pleased to know you," said Clinch, level-eyed, unstringing.

The troopers dismounted. Both shook hands with Clinch. Then Clinch led the way to the barn.

From the care of their horses they went to a pump to wash.

Lannis said in Stormont's ear: "Here she comes with towels. She's pretty, isn't she?"

A young girl in pink gingham advanced toward them across the patch of grass.

Lannis was very polite and presented Stormont. The girl handed them two rough towels, glanced at Stormont again after the introduction, smiled slightly.

"Dinner is ready," she said.

They dried their faces and followed her back to the house.

It was an unpainted building, partly of log. In the dining room half a dozen men waited silently for food. Lannis saluted all, named his comrade, and seated himself.

A delicious odor of Johnny-cake pervaded the room. Presently Eve Strayer appeared with the dinner.

There was dew on her pale forehead—the heat of the kitchen, no doubt. The girl's thick, lustrous hair was brownish gold, and so twisted up that it revealed her ears and a very white neck.

When she brought Stormont his dinner he caught her eyes a moment—experienced a slight shock of pleasure at their intense blue—the gentian-blue of the summer zenith at midday.

Lannis remained affable, even be-cause jocose at moments:

"No hootch for dinner, Mike?"

"The Boot-leg Express is a day late," replied Clinch, with cold humor.

Around the table ran an odd sound—a company of catamounts feeding might have made such a noise—if catamounts ever laugh.

Stormont had finished dinner. He heard a low, charming voice from behind his chair:

"Apple pie, lemon pie, maple cake, berry roll."

He looked up into two gentian-blue eyes.

"Lemon pie, please," he said, blushing.

When dinner was over and the bare dining room empty except for Clinch and the two State Troopers, the former folded his heavy, powerful hands on the table's edge and turned his square face and pale-eyed gaze on Lannis.

"Split it out," he said in a passion-voice.

Lannis crossed one knee over the other, lighted a cigaret:

"Is there a young fellow working for you named Hal Smith?"

"No," said Clinch.

"Sure."

"Clinch," continued Lannis, "have you heard about a stick-up on the wood-road out of Ghost Lake?"

"No."

"Well, a wealthy tourist from New York—a Mr. Sard, stopping at Ghost Lake Inn—was held up and robbed last Saturday toward sun-down."

"Never heard of him," said Clinch, calmly.

There was a pause.

"We heard you had a new man working for you named Hal Smith?"

named Hal Smith working around our place."

"No."

"He came here Saturday night."

"Who says so?"

"A guide from Ghost Lake."

"You know," said Lannis, "it won't do you any good if hold-up men can hide here and make a get-away."

"G'wan and search," said Clinch, calmly.

They searched the "hotel" from garret to cellar. They searched the barn, boat-shed, out-houses.

While this was going on, Clinch went into the kitchen.

"Eve," he said coolly, "the State Troopers are after that fellow, Hal Smith, who came here Saturday night. Where is he?"

"He went into Harrod's to get us a deer," she replied in a low voice. "What has he done?"

"Stuck up a man on the Ghost Lake road. He ought to have told me. Do you think you could meet up with him and tip him off?"

"He's hunting on Owl Marsh. I'll try."

"All right. Change your clothes and slip out the back door. And look out for Harrod's patrols, too."

"All right, dad," she said. "If I have to be out tonight, don't worry. I'll get word to Smith somehow."

Half an hour later Lannis and Stormont returned from a prowl around the clearing. Lannis paid the reckoning; his comrade led out the horses. He said again to Lannis:

"I'm sure it was the girl. She wore men's clothes and she went into the woods on a run."

About three o'clock the two State Troopers, riding at a walk, came to the forks of the Ghost Lake road.

"Now," said Lannis to Stormont, "if you really believe you saw the girl beat it out of the back door and take to the woods, she's probably somewhere in there—" he pointed into the western forest. "But," he added, "what's your idea in following her?"

"She wore men's clothes; she was in a hurry and trying to keep out of sight. I wondered whether Clinch might have sent her to warn him off."

"All right. Take your bearings. This road runs west to Ghost Lake. We sleep at the Inn there—if you mean to cross the woods on foot."

Stormont nodded, consulted his map and compass, pocketed both, unbuckled his spurs.

When he was ready he gave his bridle to Lannis.

"I'd just like to see what she's up to," he remarked.

The forest was open amid a big stand of white pine and hemlock, and Stormont traveled easily and swiftly. He had struck a line by compass that must cross the direction taken by Eve Strayer when she left Clinch's. But it was a wild chance that he would ever run across her.

Ruth away in the open forest Stormont heard the shot and turned in that direction.

But Eve already was very near when the young man who called himself Hal Smith fired at one of Harrod's deer—a three-prong buck on the edge of the dead water.

Hornsby had drawn and dressed the buck by the time the girl found him.

He was cleaning up when she arrived, squatting by the water's edge when he heard her voice across the swale:

"Smith! The State Troopers are looking for you!"

He stood up, dried his hands on his breeches. The girl picked her way across the bog, jumping from one tussock to the next.

When she told him what had happened he began to laugh.

"Did you really stick up this man?" she asked incredulously.

"I'm afraid I did, Eve," he replied, still laughing.

The girl's entire expression altered.

"So that's the sort you are," she said. "I thought you different. But you're all a rotten lot—"

"If you think me so rotten, why don't you run all the way from Clinch's to warn me?" he asked curiously.

"I didn't do it for you; I did it for my father. They'll jail him if they catch him hiding you. They've got it in for him. If they put him in prison he'll die. He couldn't stand it. I know. And that's why I came to find you and tell you to clear out—"

The distant crack of a dry stick checked her. The next instant she picked up his rifle, seized his arm, and fairly dragged him into a spruce thicket.

"Do you want to get my father into trouble?" she said fiercely.

The rocky flank of Star Peak bordered the marsh here.

"Come on," she whispered, jerking him along through the thicket and up the rocks to a cleft—a hole in the sheer rock overhanging by shaggy hemlock.

"Get in there," she said breathlessly.

"Whoever comes," he protested, "will see the buck yonder, and will certainly look in here—"

"Not if I go down there and take your medicine. Creep into that cave and lie down."

"What do you intend to do?" he demanded, interested and amused.

"If it's one of Harrod's game-keepers," said the girl dryly, "it only means a summons and a fine for me. And if it's a State Trooper, who is prowling in the woods yonder hunting crooks, he'll find nobody here but us—strangers. Keep quiet. I'll stand him off."

"All right. Change your clothes and slip out the back door. And look out for Harrod's patrols, too."

"All right, dad," she said. "If I have to be out tonight, don't worry. I'll get word to Smith somehow."

Half an hour later Lannis and Stormont returned from a prowl around the clearing. Lannis paid the reckoning; his comrade led out the horses. He said again to Lannis:

OVER THOUSAND HOME RUNS MADE IN MAJOR LEAGUES THIS YEAR

Hornsby Best with 42; 17 Less Than Babe Ruth's Record.

New York, Oct. 2—By the Associated Press—Rogers Hornsby, besides batting himself into baseball's hall of fame as the first National Leaguer to finish with a mark over .400 in twenty-three years, has succeeded Babe Ruth as home run king.

Hornsby finished the season with 42 circuit clouts, behind Ruth's record crop of 59 the season before.

Ken Williams of the St. Louis Browns, leading the American League, was three behind the Cardinal star with 39. Tillie Walker, chief of Connie Mack's sluggers, occupied third place with 37 and the former monarch, Ruth, registered 35 four base blows.

Ruth, despite the handicap of a late start, due to his suspension, was unable to gain on Hornsby from the time he rejoined the Yankees on May 29. The Cardinal clouter had six home runs when the Babe was restored to good standing, and finished the season seven ahead of his Yankee rival.

Hornsby Consistent

Williams, who with Walter Johnson of the Phillies, holds the unusual distinction of hitting three homers in a single game this season, led the homerun slingers at the time of Ruth's re-entry with eleven to his credit. The Browns' star collected his homers in spurs, however, while Hornsby plodded away at the fences at a steady consistent pace.

GRAND JURORS FIND DRY LAW OPERATIVES WITHDRAWN LIQUORS

No Indictments Because of Unprecedented Acts of Men.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Certain unnamed "representatives of the Department of Justice" are declared in a federal grand jury report made public here today to have withdrawn quantities of seized intoxicating liquor from storage during 1920 without due process of law, and to have disposed of a part of it by appropriating it for their own use and by giving it to friends and relatives.

The grand jury further held that the liquor in question, most of which had been seized at the Washington union station and stored in rooms of the Department of Justice building and warehouses here, was "disposed of by officers and employees with the sanction and approval of those in higher authority at that time."

NO INDICTMENTS

The report added, however, that "in view of the unprecedented circumstances surrounding the case," it had been decided not to return indictments against those involved. The withdrawals were all said to have taken place prior to Sept. 11, 1920.

By evidence gathered in a long and far-reaching investigation the jury informed the court, it was established that although the intoxicants referred to were "supposed to be the property of the United States, this forfeiture never had in fact been confirmed legally because the seizures were not followed up with the necessary legal steps by Department of Justice officials.

Because of this situation the jury held "the persons who seized such liquor and parcels were trespassers," acting at their individual risks.

Regarding disposition of the liquor after it had been removed from the places of storage the grand jury report says:

"It further appears that certain representatives of the Department of Justice disposed of the liquor in various ways, viz: Appropriating it to their own use, by making gifts to relatives, friends, physicians and hospitals, and by destroying such of it as appeared to be unfit for consumption, but no testimony was given to show that any of said liquor was sold for a monetary or property consideration."

Lincoln Memorial at Washington, D. C.

Ten Years Required to Complete the Building

NOT to perpetuate his memory nor yet to glorify his name has our nation erected the mighty memorial to Lincoln that was dedicated at Washington on May 31. "Isolated, distinguished, serene," it stands, a people's everlasting expression of reverence for the man it commemorates. It

Strong and Simple.

Strength and simplicity, too, describe the keynote of that silent white chamber where directly opposite the main entrance sits the patient lonely figure of the patient lonely man.

And if the sculptured lips are dumb, the figure in its entirety is so life-like that it is vocal of the goodness of the one-time rail splitter, who received and held with highest honor the highest honor this country offers any man.

On either side of the main chamber and separated from it by Ionic columns, lie the two sanctuaries, consecrated to Lincoln's immortal words. The one at the northern end of the hall is illuminated by Guerrier's mural band that runs its mellow colors above the tablet on which is cut the "Second Inaugural Address." Wonderfully colorful is the allegorical representation of the address. In a grove of cypress trees, symbols of eternity, the angel of truth is pictured as binding in an indissoluble union, the North and South, to which the arts and sciences are bringing an undivided allegiance. On the left, fraternity, through family life, develops the productivity of the earth, and on the right charity offers the warden of life to the maimed, and cares for the orphans left destitute by war's waste and destruction. Unity, fraternity, charity, these were the principals that held Lincoln steady in his purpose to sacrifice all to the great cause in which he so justly believed.

In exact duplicate of the northern end of the hall is the southern end, save this part is set aside for the enshrinement of the famous "Gettysburg address." Again, above the familiar Sculptor and Artist Helped.

In his stupendous creative task Mr. Bacon called upon Daniel Chester French, the sculptor, and Jules Guérin, the artist, as his associates and aides.

In the finished labor of these three eminent artists "stands a supreme accomplishment of memorial art, comparable with the greatest of the world's works." And toward this marble templed shrine, as the years pass, pilgrim feet of a grateful posterity will ever make their devout way.

High above the long reflecting pool before it, which mirrors its shimmer-words of the most perfect piece of English in the world today, is emblazoned the allegory. Once again appears the cypress grove, the principal figure in which is the freed slave. Justice and law are pictured to the left and at the right, immortality sets her seal of approval on the fearless emancipator. These two murals form the only color in the white wonder of the whole building and the light falls softly on them, through the translucent marble slabs in the flat roof and more light floods the figure of Lincoln from the open facade.

So, the great Lincoln memorial stands complete at last, a parthenon, built on the acropolis of a nation's reverence.

When the Snow Fall Is Red

Last summer red snow made its appearance in the Rocky Mountain National Park, to the wonder of tourists. The great masses of color present in the snow fields of the higher elevations, says the Scientific American, are due to billions of tiny organisms, half plant, half animal, that have the power of movement, growth and reproduction.

The organism is an Arctic species known as Protococcus nivalis, and it has been found in Glacier and Mount Rainier National Parks only within the past decade. The color reaches its maximum density about a quarter of an inch below the surface of the snow; on the tongue its flavor suggests watermelon. It is a mystery how the spore traversed such great distances, but it is supposed to have traveled on the Chinook winds.

Sweet Potatoes as a Source of Alcohol

According to the Journal of the Department of Agriculture of South Africa (1921), pp. 229 and 340, the sweet potato is suggested as a possible source of alcohol for fuel purposes. Compared with the ordinary potato, the sweet potato is more easily grown and contains more starch. Its composition is 72 per cent water and 25 per cent of starch and sugar, against 75 per cent water and 16 to 24 per cent starch in the ordinary potato.

Ants That Eat Flowers.

A new type of ant, large, vicious and prolific, is playing havoc with the flower industry of the Italian Riviera. It is supposed to have been introduced from the Argentine.

which had accommodations for 75 persons. For a large double room, containing two single beds, spotlessly clean, we paid 70 cents a day. This included maid service. The usual breakfast consisted of rolls and coffee. Butter and sugar were charged extra, and very carefully measured, as these are high in Germany. The Amazing Low Cost of Living in Berlin

IT'S a shame to take the money," preferred to have ours in the public aptly characterizes the mental attitude of Americans who can pay for two persons about $14 to $15 a dollars for their living expenses in week; this covered hotel bill, all our Germany. I have just returned from meals and some opera and theater going.

A young American student, attending, with one exception—when I paid nearly four dollars for a luxurious room, private bath and breakfast in dollars, from home. I remember his statement: "It's good to be in Germany with dollars; with only my everything was remarkably cheap.

The temptation to spend money recklessly is too strong for most Americans; they always, at first, make quick mental calculation such as "This is only 40 cents in our money" and buy something they don't need. Usually the habit of heedless spending is overcome within a week or two, though some visitors persist in throwing away their German marks just because they are so cheap.

Cheerfully Spent 2,000 Marks for Dinner

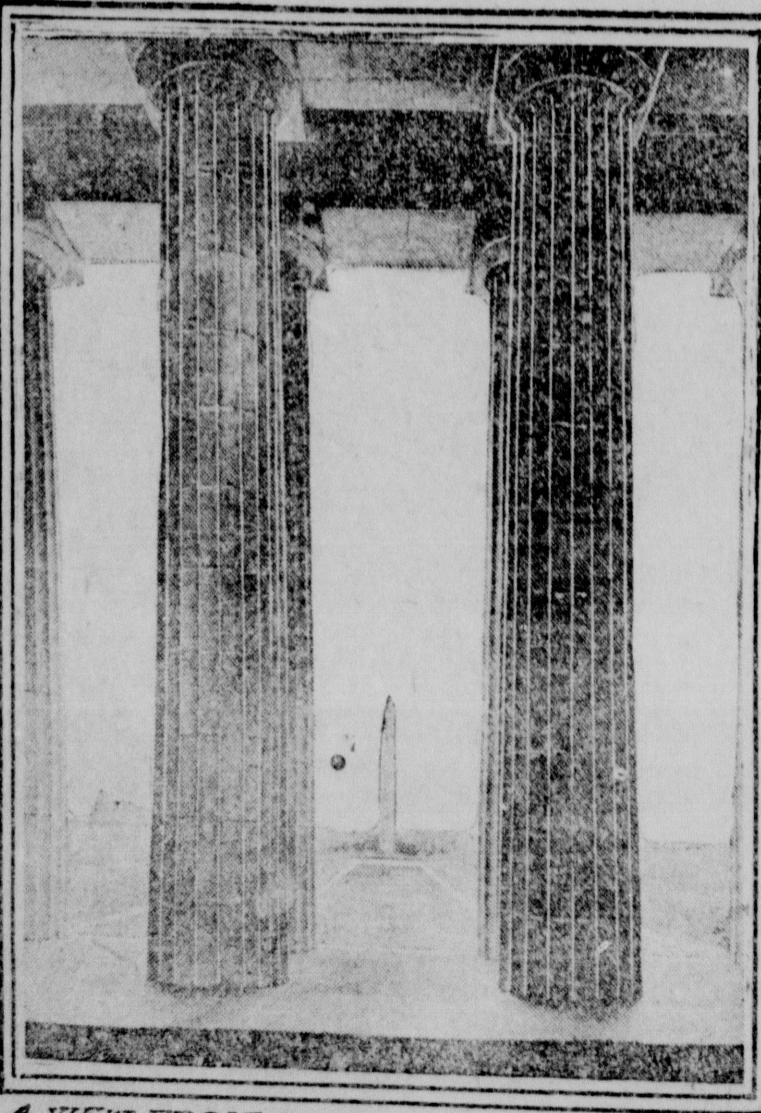

I recall an evening in Hamburg; three of us, just landed, having exchanged dollars for marks at the rate of 187 marks to the dollar—this was in January—cheerfully spent 2,000 marks for a dinner, followed by something to eat and drink, plus a few dances in a cafe. Our party of four had increased to seven and, acting as treasurer for the "three-dollar spenders," I made no objection to the amounts of the bills. After all, it was only about ten dollars in our money (thus reasons the newly-arrived "easy of Pilsner or Culmacher. When I say mark") and where under the sun could a large glass I mean a large glass, so many people have such a good time for four times as much at home? Germans may occasionally theorize about our Eighteenth amendment—they disdain to follow it in practice.

We lived in a hospiz, or small hotel. Undoubtedly the high dollar is an
